Assemblyman-Elect Papan's Seat Filled By Victor Kyriakis

A San Francisco attorney was unanimously appointed by the California Trial Lawyers Association, Westlake Improvement Association, Hellenic American Assemblyman-elect Louis J. Papan, who resigned earlier in the council meeting.

Victor Kyriakis, a member of the city's Planning Commission since 1971 and active in both Papan's bid for the council three years ago and the Assembly elections earlier this month, was named to fill Papan's unexpired term.

The announcement came during a public meeting of the council which followed a closed-door session attended by all members of the council except Papan.

Kyriakis lives at 80 Cliffside Drive in the Westlake section of the city. He has been a resident of the city for the past 12 years and is 37 years old.

Kyriakis attended Stanford University where he earned a degree in political science. He also attended the University of California and Hastings College of Law and was admitted to the State Bar in 1964.

In addition to being a member of the Planning Commission, Kyriakis is a member of the San Mateo County Transit Development Board, Citizens Committee, San Francisco Bar Association, S.F. Lawyers Club, and several other organizations.

Woman, 26, Held in SSF Drug Death

A 26-year-old South San Francisco woman is being held in custody in lieu of $50,000 bail for charges of murder and various narcotics offenses.

Arrested by South San Francisco police Saturday in connection with the Thanksgiving Day death of Michael Raczynski, 24, 309 De Nardi Way, South San Francisco, was Sandra Johnson.

A police report states that the suspected cause of death was an overdose of methadone, a synthetic drug used as a substitute for heroin.

South San Francisco Police Detective Jack Rhodes and Probation Officer Irving Sternburg led a force of South San Francisco police officers on a raid at the Johnson home at 309 Northwood Drive Saturday.

Mrs. Johnson was also charged with possession of marijuana, and possession of narcotics and narcotic paraphernalia.

Also arrested was her husband, Gary Earl Johnson, 30, who was charged with possession of marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia as well as failure to register as a narcotics offender.

He is being held in lieu of $5,000 bail.

Both were arraigned in Northern District Municipal Court Monday.

Judge Walter Capacioli continued Mrs. Johnson's case to December 4 for plea.

According to South San Francisco police, Raczynski, a painter, met Mrs. Johnson in a bar and received a dose of methadone from her. He went to the home of a friend on Francisco Drive, where he was found dead.

Midway Project Hurdle Is Hopped

The Midway Village redevelopment project passed its first hurdle Monday night when the Daly City city council gave its nod to proceed with the next planning phase.

Plans being prepared by Kirk-Chapman Associates, a San Francisco-based engineering firm, call for construction of 150 units for military personnel and their families stationed in the area.

There are presently 436 units located on a 25-plus acre site off Geneva Avenue in the Bayshore district of the city.

Part of this acreage — some ten acres — is leased from Pacific Gas & Electric company. This lease expires in 1975 and PG&E is not expected to continue with the present arrangement.

The utility company has made it clear they will need the property for anticipated expansion of its facility by 1980 to serve customers demands. San Mateo County Housing Executive Director Wm. Glenn Weman explained.

This setback, coupled with requests from two schools and the recreation department, for land needs in the area will whittle the usable acreage for housing down to 13.5 acres, Weman said.

The military has indicated they have long range use for Midway Village.

Meanwhile, Weman is hopeful he will be able to arrange with necessary government agencies approval to scatter the "difference" in the housing to be built and the existing housing — 280 units — around the county for use by low income families.

"We are now checking this possibility out with the State Attorney General's Office," Weman said.

4 Coasts Boys Rescued

Four Pacific boys who were lost overnight on Montara Mountain because of a wrong turn, were home safe again after a rescue at about 10:30 a.m. today.

Explorer Post 808 conducted search operations throughout the area, using pickup trucks, motorcycles and other vehicles, as well as their own feet.

Home safe were brothers Steve 15, Joe 14, and George Cruz, 12, 1080 View Way, and John Kremesec, 13, 1251 Alspen Drive.

Finding them was a group of three members of Explorer Post 808, which had recently gone to the rescue of a hiker.

Mark Roberts, Kathy Rancanelli, and Jeanette Raanes, the latter being John's big sister.

The matter was the subject of discussion at Tuesday night's

Four Houses on the Brink

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The State of California is now trying to determine the reason for ground slippage in an area 700 feet above Thornton Beach in Daly City where four private homes are in danger of crashing to the beach below.

A lawsuit by homeowners has been filed against the state declaring it responsible for not taking proper action to insure the cliff face would not continue to crumble after the now abandoned Highway 1 fell in some 15 years ago in the wake of a sharp earthquake.

Special listening devices have been lowered by state engineers into holes drilled into the cliff face to chart earth movements at varying depths below ground. What they have learned thus far has not been made public.

Meanwhile, four once-roughed-after homes perched high above the Pacific Ocean are slowly cracking apart at the seams and steadily slipping over the edge.

Some nearby residents and the new Coastside Initiative — Proposition 20 — have teamed up, it appears, to stymie one man in his effort to save at least one of the houses at 84 Lynvale Court.

Pereira, of 16 Ortega Court, Pacifica, purchased the house for transfer to an empty lot at 142 Northridge Drive — a short distance south of its present location.

When he decided to buy the structure and move it he had secured nine signatures from 12 residents of the immediate area.

And the new coastside activity within several hundred yards of the ocean waters, is now being scrutinized by Daly City Attorney Al Polonsky to determine whether it applies to such matters.

Polonsky last week informed the council he would have to check out the new law "to be on the safe side."

To add to Pereira's woes, after waiting a month for a building permit from the city to move the house, seven of the nine homeowners living around the vacant lot have withdrawn their signatures from his petition.

Pereira blames one disgruntled homeowner with convincing the others to change their minds about allowing the house to be moved. He has asked the city council to make a decision on whether he can move the home or not.

Had he known the residents would change their minds he would not have bought the lot, Pereira said. And had he known Proposition 20 might stall the issue, he might never have purchased the home.

While the matter is being discussed the ground continues to slip. Last year the earth slipped about two inches, according to residents of the area.

Some people moved out. Others are still trying to salvage what (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Assessments Explained by Assessor

Property tax assessments can be based on what side of the street one lives.

San Bruno city councilmen learned this Monday night when Councilman Neil Christal emphatically pointed out that two vacant parcels on either side of Sneath Lane at the entrance to the Portola Highlands section of the city were inequitably assessed.

Christal's comments were directed to County Assessor Jack Estes, who had been asked to attend the meeting to relate methods used in appraising properties.

The primary reason Estes was asked to attend the meeting stemmed from previous complaints of Portola Highlands homeowners that a request was being made to rezone a 5.17-acre parcel of land on the west side of Sneath Lane and Monterey Drive from single-family use to townhouse use.

It was emphatically pointed out that "the property is properly zoned," according to a homeowner association statement.

At that time the matter of property tax being paid on that parcel ($148.98 a year for half a dozen years) was challenged as being highly inequitable claim. (Please See Page 2, Column 2)

Girl's Holiday Tears Modern-Day Sir Galahads

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Two Daly City policemen are modern-day Sir Galahads in the eyes of a 20-year-old girl found weeping in front of a Westlake church on a Sunday morning some three weeks ago.

The girl was crying, she told Officer Kalani Deshea, because the holidays were just around the corner and she had nothing to send to her parents — no presents and no money to buy any gifts.

Officer Deshea, Hawaiian-born and a recent arrival to the Daly City area, on questioning the girl learned that she worked for a very prominent local resident — the vice consul of a South Pacific island nation.

Not only was she required to cook, sew, keep house and clean cars for members of the consul's family, she was only allowed to leave the house for two hours on Sunday to attend church, she said. And, because of the crowded conditions inside the home, she was ordered to sleep on the floor.

Since her arrival in this area two years ago, the girl had not been paid, she told Deshea.

What could she do? She simply wanted to return home with any reprisal to herself or family still living in the humid mid-Pacific nation.

The girl was escorted to the Daly City police station where Lt. Tom Culley listened to her story of human bondage.

Culley said he was astounded to learn the girl was paid only $30 a month to care for 22 persons living in a four-bedroom, two-bath home.

He checked out her story with the State Department in Washington, D.C., before taking further action.

Culley said he proceeded "with caution" because of the international incident it might spark.

Meanwhile, the girl was housed in the Salvation Army boarding home in San Francisco — paid for by Culley and Deshea.

"The State Department verified such a person (the girl) did work for the vice-consul of that country, had been in the United States for the past four years as a housemaid for the consul, but they (the State Dept.) would not offer further comment," police Capt. David Hansen said.

Culley and Deshea invited the (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

they can from the "mobile homes."

Cracks began appearing in the roadways and along the foundation of two of the homes closest to the edge of the cliff about five years ago.

Gradually these cracks began to widen. City street crews patched the road. Homeowners painted and cemented over the hairline cracks in the sides of homes.

But soon the slippage accelerated.

Windows and doors would not close. Glass and tile cracked. Driveways and patios resembled a crazy patchwork pattern with some depressions several inches deep and chunks of concrete creeping on top of other broken off blocks.

Stairways cracked loose from walls. And if a round object was dropped it rolled to the west side of the structure.

One real estate salesman remarked sardonically, "If you know anyone that is interested in buying a home with a fantastic view of the Pacific ocean that might soon become a beach home or houseboat, let me know."

Until guarantees are made and attempts to stop the slip are put into force, it is unlikely the salesman will have any takers.

girl to their homes where the officers' wives prepared dinner for her.

Gradually the story found its way to the office of the Consul General of the country concerned.

Reports indicate the Consul General was more than a little upset on learning of the girl's plight.

He ordered his vice-consul to immediately provide the girl with an airline ticket home and to place all back pay due her in a savings bank of her choice.

"I got a letter from her last week," Deshea said Monday. "She said the back pay the vice-consul was ordered to pay her had not been deposited yet. After two years she is still waiting for her money."

A man portraying "Santa Claus" suffered a heart attack and died Friday afternoon at the Serramonte Shopping Center.

One minute "Santa" was sitting there listening to the dreams of a pretty little girl and the next he was sprawled on the floor surrounded by dozens of weeping children and near-hysterical parents.

Instead of being the joyous holiday it was intended to be a dark pall hung over the day.

It was not until later that it was discovered the deceased was 66-year-old Martin Thompson, one of Santa Claus' many helpers in the Bay Area.

Thompson, of 2130 Vicente Street, San Francisco, was jovially talking to the hundreds of people packing the huge inside mall of the center when he became ill. He died a few minutes later.

Friday morning a "Santa" had arrived at the center in a pared with what single-family homeowners pay in taxes.

It was pointed out in a qualified statement by Estes that the average tax on a single-family lot in San Bruno is approximately $275.

Also at that time, City Planner Jack Mulqueeny estimated that the property in San Bruno sells at about $50,000 an acre. That would put the fair market value of the 5.177 acres at about $260,000.

And according to Christal, an approximate three-acre parcel of land, directly across the street from this 5.177 acres, within the last several years was sold at approximately $50,000 an acre and the owner has since that time been paying much higher taxes than the owner of the 5.177-acre parcel.

The apparent inconsistent assessment and taxing procedure will be reviewed by Estes' office at the request of Mayor George Korey, who also asked that a report on the matter be made to the council when the review is complete.

Estes explained that the reason the 5.177 acres, owned by Challenge Development, was assessed at the present scale is because it is zoned R-1 (single family) and it is "raw" land, without any improvements. He said that if and when rezoned to a "higher" use it would be reassessed to that use. He had no explanation as to why the parcel across the street was assessed differently.

However, upon questioning by Mayor Korey, Estes referred to a communication he had received from Gordon Hansen, president of Challenge Development, that said the 5.177-acre parcel was zoned R-1 for use only as one single-family residence site.

hot air balloon: climbed out and walked the entire length of the center, rode a fire truck around to the roof of Macy's, and climbed a ladder to the roof of the building.

Once on the roof, Thompson assumed the role of jolly old St. Nick and went down a stairway to the shopping mall below about 3 p.m.

It was disclosed that the "original Santa" who had ridden the balloon into the center amidst a cheering excited crowd of children and parents was much younger than his assistant, Thompson.

Parking Proposals Are Fought

Parking proposals in two adjacent north Pacifica neighborhoods drew out the large delegations of concerned residents at last night's meeting of the Pacifica City Council.

A proposal by the Health and Safety Commission to restrict parking on one side of Manor Drive brought down a score of residents from that street that constitutes one of the three links between Skyline and the Coast Highway. It is the only such street, however, that is largely residential.

Residents of Pacific Highlands - which includes the top two blocks of Manor - expressed their concern over proposals to make more room for cars to park in their neighborhood. The parking proposals cost up to $350 per home.

The result of the Manor Drive protest was that the council showed no inclination to go along with the parking ban, but they asked that residents of Manor and the Health and Safety Commission get together to propose a new solution to the problem.

Manor Drive's traffic problem would not be solved by the no-parking restriction, according to Armando D. Gutierrez, 330 Manor.

"It would make it a greater traffic rack," he asserted.

S.S.F. Visitor Cut, Robbed

A visitor to South San Francisco was seriously injured Saturday when he was jumped by three men who stabbed him and stole his wallet.

According to South San Francisco police, Leopoldo Rodriguez of El Monte had just stepped out of a tavern on Grand Avenue and walked round the corner to Cypress Avenue when three men jumped him.

A friend found Rodriguez leaning against the friend's car, bleeding. Rodriguez was rushed to Mary's Help Hospital in serious condition. He was treated for deep lacerations in his stomach, chest and forehead. He was reported going better today following surgery.

Firemen Revive Stricken Child

A two-year-old Pacifica boy was alive Saturday thanks to the teamwork of two firemen and an ambulance driver. Little Shay Lambertson, of 824 Oddstad Boulevard, Pacifica had stopped breathing when firemen arrived at his home at 6:48 p.m.

Shay's father, Peter, was attempting mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on the child but there were no vital signs of life, according to Lieut. Capt. Ray Boucher.

With fireman Tom Elliott administering chest massage, Boucher resumed mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to the child until the ambulance arrived some nine minutes later.

Mrs. Karen Lambertson said her son had stopped breathing after a choking spell. But neither Capt. Boucher nor ambulance attendant Mark Pattie could find any obstructions in the victim's throat.

Inside the ambulance, en route to Mary's Help Hospital, Boucher continued chest massage and Pattie applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Less than four blocks from the hospital the child began showing a pulse beat and other signs of life.

For more than 25 minutes there had been no pulse, no heartbeat and every indication the child was dead, according to reports.

Benefit for Millbrae Nursery Set

The Millbrae Nursery School will be holding its annual fund-raising event on Friday at the Millbrae Recreation Center, 471 Lincoln Circle, Millbrae, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. The event will consist of wine tasting, arts and crafts show, and raffle. The public is invited to participate. A $150 donation will be collected at the door.

The art show will feature a variety of media presented by a number of local artists and craftsmen. All articles will be available for purchase. The Californian, German, and French wines will be served with a wide variety of appetizers. All proceeds will be used to implement the school scholarship and building program.

The Millbrae Nursery School is maintained jointly by the parents' co-operative group and the College of San Mateo as an interracial, non-sectarian parent participation institution. The program is open to all children, r.m. the ages of two and a half through five years. The school has both morning and afternoon sessions. This year the school is accommodating 116 families, including 10 Head Start and 10 Compensatory Education sponsored children. Mrs. Maryjane Wheeler is executive director.

Current president of the school's parent organization is Mrs. Judge Brascos. Members of the Fund Raising Committee include: Mrs. Anne Wheaton, chairman, and Mmes. Lorena Barott, Eugenie Bruce, Sue Greenbaum, Pat Miskie, Rose Nigel, Maria Brustrom and Janet Sammut.

Devil's Slide Bypass Fate Still Unsure in Sacramento

The situation seemed to change hourly last week for Senate Concurrent Resolution 86 being acquired through the legislative mill by State Senator Arlen F. Gregorio (D-San Mateo). Gregorio's resolution calls for reducing the size of the proposed Devil's Slide bypass highway over Montara Mountain.

Tuesday morning Gregorio said he thought he had a compromise with the Division of Highways about that and could amend the resolution after it was reported out of the Senate Finance Committee.

Tuesday afternoon John Gilroy, Gregorio's administrative assistant, said it appeared there would not be enough time before adjournment to get the resolution passed and the compromise with Division of Highways looks dim.

"We don't know what will happen next," Gilroy said.

Gregorio said he thought he had a compromise — the Division would drop its six-lane cut-and-fill and four-lane passing lanes and he would back off from his resolution's demand for a four-lane cut and two-lane plus passing lane passing. The middle ground would be four lanes of cut-and-fill and four of paving.

Later Tuesday, Gilroy said, it was learned such a revision could delay the project for three more years, according to Division of Highways people.

"If things are still loose when we reconvene in January, we might try the resolution again," Gilroy said.

Gregorio was under the impression the project could be delayed only a few months by scaling down.

But a Division of Highways spokesman in San Francisco yesterday confirmed the three-year delay — "and that's a bare minimum," he emphasized. Redesign, re-finding and preparation of environmental impact reports would take at least that long, he stated.

He confirmed also that the highways people were talking with Gregorio and staff "on a more or less continuous basis" lately.

The Division still wants to do something on the bypass because of the high danger factor on the old highway on the face of the Devil's Slide cliffs, the spokesman said.

Coastside and county officials made their case for four lanes, which their agencies have supported.

met with Gregorio November 21 and pointed to a five-year delay if his resolution's intent were carried out and the highway re-planned.

Rockaway Project Delayed to Jan. 15

After listening to a series of objections voiced by residents of the Fassler Avenue area to the proposed 907-unit Rockaway Highlands development, the Pacifica Planning Commission November 20 voted to hold over the whole thing for their January 5 meeting.

The planners asked their staff to investigate a number of objections raised by the protesters, particularly information on the cost of services engendered by the development, and circulation patterns. Protesting residents had complained that the development would require more services, such as fire, police and schooling.

The residents also complained that their street would be flooded with traffic from the development. Planners asked staff to check on this, and whether any alternate ingress or egress could be worked out for Rockaway Highlands.

Three different controversial quarry operations came under the gun of the planners.

One, off of Sharp Park Road next to the Stake House of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, was killed altogether. This quarry had often been the target of objections of residents of Pacific Heights, in San Bruno, but no protesting groups appeared this time.

Owner Mike Cuzzolino of Milbrae told the planners that he had some additional rock quarrying to do. One planner noted that he had been quarrying for seven years, and that last year, Cuzzolino had told them that the one additional year would be his last one. The planner added that as far as he was concerned, it was his last year.

A quarry use permit for the site of the 850-unit Milagra Ridge project brought out a delegation of anxious neighbors.

The site is located on Ocean Boulevard and zoned for high rise apartment. The planners continued the quarry to December 4, for an environmental impact report.

They reviewed the conditions of the Rhodes and Jamieson quarry permit, for Pacifica's oldest quarry operation, dating back to 1906. Residents of Vallejo and Rockaway Beach had complained that the leveling of the picturesque hill was causing a worsening of the weather. The planners asked the staff to obtain a wind and soils study of the operation, preparatory to a possible hearing for revocation of the permit.

A rezoning request for a new project remained a mystery, as a letter from Dr. Alan Stewart asked the planners to hold over a request to rezone a two-acre site at Fairway Park from R-1, single family residential to C-1, neighborhood commercial, to the December 4 meeting.

The planners accepted an environmental impact report for Robert Sherman in behalf of Ken Royce for his 152-unit apartment complex, which also fronts on Fassler, but below where the protesting citizens live. An appeal from Royce, from the planners previous denial of his request for smaller apartments awaits council action.

'Closed' Westmoor Campus Plunge Timetable is given

By JACK BIK

In a tie-breaking vote, the Jefferson Junior High School District Board of Trustees voted November 21 to keep Westmoor a closed campus.

They heeded the recommendation of Superintendent Edward D. Morgan, who noted that a petition of 15 merchants from the nearby Skyline Plaza Shopping Center had pleaded for a retention of the present policy.

The trustees met at Oceana High School after attending Pacifica's 15th anniversary dinner there.

Morgan noted that if Westmoor were declared an open campus, the board would be faced with similar requests from other schools. Opening Jefferson, he said, would cause a traffic hazard on Mission Street, which now has greater traffic than when a similar hazard caused the policy to be instituted.

Two schools, Serramonte and Oceana, have modular scheduling, which is antagonistic to the policy of an open campus, Morgan said. The fourth school, Terra Nova, is up in the hills with just homes nearby.

Trustees, however, heard an eloquent plea from Westmoor student body president Tony Giammea, who asked for a nine-week, lunch-period only trial period, with no cars permitted to leave campus.

Trustee Ruth Boudinot moved to approve Giammea's request, and John H. Sloane seconded the motion. After some 45 minutes of debate, however, the board split 2-2, and Board President Jane Powell voted against Mrs. Boudinot's motion.

Meanwhile, engineer John Chapman presented a time chart for Westmoor High School's new covered swimming pool.

The trustees voted to cancel their scheduled December 5 and December 19 meetings and to meet once in December, on the 11th, in a joint session with the City Council, to discuss the swimming pool plans. After the session, the two bodies would then continue meeting separately in different rooms.

Chapman said that, at the December 11 meeting, he will present schematic plans for the pool, to be a joint city-school facility. His plans would show the location of the pool, its relation with the buildings, and how it would look. It would go to bid in February and would take 134 days to be built.

An absolute cost ceiling of $700,000 has been set for the pool. Morgan said. Previous plans for the pool had been discarded when bids came to over a million dollars. A joint city-school district committee has been meeting regularly in making new plans for the pool.

ACADEMY SENIOR

U.S. AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. — Cadet Kevin E. McHugh, son of Mrs. Jeanne D. McHugh of 1401 Niles Avenue, San Bruno, is one of more than 850 cadets who have entered their senior year at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

During his three years at the academy, Cadet McHugh has been a member of the Dean's list six semesters for his outstanding academic achievement.

This past summer, the cadet completed six weeks of ground and flight training in a T-41 aircraft to qualify for a Federal Aviation private pilot license and acceptance into U.S. Air Force pilot training.

Police Arrest Seven After Street Brawl in San Bruno

Seven persons were arrested, one a juvenile, after a party erupted into a street brawl in San Bruno Saturday night.

Booked on charges of malicious mischief, disturbing the peace, drunkenness and contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Christopher John Smith, 21, of 712 First Avenue, San Bruno; David Richard Smoot, 21, and Allen Carl Smoot, 21, both lasting the same address. Others were Albert Austin Dolores, 25, of San Francisco; Paul James Olandre III, 18, of 13 Los Flores, South San Francisco; Keith Alan Gurnells, 21, in the U.S. Marines; and the juvenile police refused to identify.

According to the report a large party at 712 First Avenue, Apt. 4, had moved out into the street.

Police said there was much shouting of obscenities and a general obstructing of peace in the neighborhood. According to police, fighting began between unknown individuals inside the apartment and spread rapidly to the street.

At the time of the street fighting, police received nine calls from residents. Numerous ju-niles and adults were mulling about in front of the First Avenue residence and south on First Avenue to and including the intersection of First Avenue and Pine Street, police said.

Theft Arrest In Pacifica

Two youths were arrested November 21 in Pacifica on charges of grand theft. They were accused of purse-snatching.

Police alleged that John Henry Carter, 19, and a 17-year-old companion drove a pickup truck on Sausalito Drive November 2. The 17-year-old got off the truck, police charged, ran up to a 66-year-old woman, and grabbed her purse with $29 in it. He kept running and got back onto the truck, which Carter was driving, police said.

Four days later the two reversed roles and snatched a purse at the Serramonte Shopping Center, police said. That time, witnesses got the license number.

Youth held in wounding of Deputy

Wednesday, Nov. 29, 1972 THE POST

By VERN KROGH

Scores of police officers from two counties virtually cordoned off the Portola Valley area of south San Mateo County for at least four hours Friday afternoon.

A 17-year-old Sunnyvale youth, armed with a high-powered Japanese-made rifle, allegedly took a shot at a San Mateo County Sheriff's helicopter, seriously wounding the deputy of server inside.

Undergoing more than five hours of surgery was Deputy Jack R. Gerhardt, 39, of Broadmoor, a member of the sheriff's office since October 30, 1967.

First shortly before 2 p.m. when the pilot of the aircraft, Deputy Dave McIntyre, radioed, "My observer's been shot. Have an ambulance meet me Code 3."

McIntyre was ordered by Lt. Leonard Cardozo to fly directly to the hospital, but he had gone only about four miles when he radioed, "Jack's passed out! I'm putting it down."

He landed in a Little League baseball field just off Alpine Road in Portola Valley, and began to apply compresses to Gerhardt's wounds. Woodside firemen from the nearby Portola Valley station arrived on the scene shortly, and gave first aid.

"Thank God someone applied a tourniquet," a nurse remarked when the ambulance finally arrived at the hospital.

A 7.7-mm shell had punctured the undercarriage of the helicopter, had gone through Gerhardt's right thigh, severing a femoral artery, punctured a map book, and then passed through his left wrist before flying through the Plexiglas bubble of the helicopter, sending fragments flying about the cockpit.

JACK GERHARDT

DAVE MCINTYRE

Although McIntyre joined the search, fellow deputies later found a fragment of plastic in one of his eyes, and he, too, was taken to the hospital.

McIntyre said, "Jack yelled, 'I'm hit,' and there was blood all over the place. It made a pretty loud explosion. It went boom! Pieces of plastic were shattered all over me."

Ironically, Gerhardt had not been scheduled for duty yesterday, but had traded days off with Deputy Mike Preston. One of the largest manhunt in the county's history began immediately, sent all its available units from throughout the county to the scene. Other departments, including the Santa Clara County Sheriff's office, the California Highway Patrol and Palo Alto Police also dispatched patrol cars.

Everyone leaving the area was stopped, and hundreds of cars were searched. According to Detective Rudy Siemsen, some dozen weapons were confiscated from cars as the search continued.

The two deputies in the helicopter had been sent to the heavily wooded Los Trancos Woods area of Portola Valley at 11 a.m. by Patrol Officer Gene Masini on complaints from 20 residents shooting was going on.

At 4 p.m. Deputies Bruce McIntyre and Mike Kerr were checking up along a dirt section of Alpine Road past a "Road Closed" sign when Kerr spotted a blue Volkswagen van containing high-caliber ammunition.

They continued west, finding numerous .22-caliber rifle and 12-gauge shotgun shells along the road. Two 7.7-mm cartridges were found among the numerous footprints on the mud.

Molynex reported he was continuing the track with his dog, "Emir," when he and Kerr heard the reports of high-caliber weapons. They were walking up a dirt path, when they were suddenly confronted by five teenagers, two, 17, and three 18, coming around a turn. All were carrying weapons, and the two deputies ordered them to drop the guns and put their hands on their heads. Sgts. Frank Gordon and John Elzer arrived on the scene, and a search of one of the 17-year-old youths disclosed he had a bolt from a high-caliber rifle and an unexpended 7.7-caliber shell in his pocket.

The five were handcuffed, and brought to the sheriff's office in Redwood City, where one of the youths blamed the 17-year-old Sunnyvale boy for shooting at the helicopter.

Gerhardt, who was given a transfusion of 10 pints of blood, (Please See Page 6, Column 1) is expected to undergo extensive additional surgery as nerves may have been severed in his wrist and right leg as the bullet split.

Taken from the quintet were four .22 rifles, two shotguns and the high-powered Japanese rifle. All the youths were from Santa Clara County, and all said they had come to the wooded area around 11 a.m. just to do some shooting.

The one boy was booked at Hillcrest Juvenile Hall on a charge of attempted murder. Because it was feared some structural damage may have been done to the helicopter, it was trucked back to the San Carlos airport. The department's second helicopter had been used in the search.

TOP TROOPER

FT. BRAGG, N.C. — Army Sergeant Michael P. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Smith, 145 E. Vista Avenue, Daly City, recently was presented the 82nd Airborne Division's Distinguished Trooper Award at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

Sgt. Smith received the award for his outstanding leadership as a section leader in a 106 Anti-Tank Platoon.

Money No. 1 Woe: Counsel

Most marriage difficulties stem from money problems, John Lyons, senior counselor of the San Mateo County Superior Court's "Court of Conciliation," told the San Bruno Optimist Club at their regular meeting at the New Southern Restaurant in South San Francisco.

The Court of Conciliation is not really a court, but is an arm of the court where people with marital problems come in separately to discuss their problems and try to find a solution.

According to Lyons, 86 percent of the troubled marriages which come to this "court" are saved.

Lyons told the San Bruno Optimist Club that after money problems, the next on the list of marriage difficulties comes from in-law problems, either husband's or wife's.

There is no charge at the Court of Conciliation and any San Mateo County resident may get an application from the county clerk's office. Anyone under 18 years of age must go to the Court of Conciliation before marrying for screening and advice.

The Optimist Club of San Bruno meets twice a month at the New Southern.

Ryan Names Congress Aide

Congressman-elect Leo Ryan (D-SSP) today appointed Anthony J. Tarlock as chairman of the Congressional Appointments Advisory Committee.

"It is paramount that Congressional appointments, for positions in West Point, Annapolis, etc., are given careful and professional review," Ryan said. "As a long-time business and civic leader I know that Tony Tarlock will be a great asset in providing such expertise."

Tarlock is the Director of the Walnut Control Board and is the vice-president of the San Mateo County Fair Board. In the past he has also chaired the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce and the campaign of Senator Alan Cranston.

Tarlock most recently directed Ryan's successful campaign for Congress in the new 11th District.

Man Arrested in Bruno Bar Burglary

A suspicious cab driver and a specially marked five-dollar bill led to the arrest Monday of an unemployed hotel manager in connection with the robbery of a San Bruno bar Sunday.

Booked was Phillip Tuo, 23, of San Francisco. Police are still seeking the whereabouts of two other men who along with Tuo allegedly held up the Mesa Cocktail Lounge, 741 San Mateo Avenue, at approximately 7 p.m.

An estimated $520 was taken, police said.

According to police, two men entered and sat at each end of the bar, with four customers in between them. The third robber then came in through the rear door and walked up to the bar.

Police said the third suspect pulled what appeared to be a 45-caliber automatic pistol. Money was removed from the cash register and the four patrons, who along with the bartender were herded in the men's room and were told to throw their wallets on the floor.

The three robbers got away. However, later in the day, a San Francisco Yellow Cab driver, a resident of Daly City, picked up a fare at San Bruno Avenue and El Camino Real, San Bruno.

The driver, according to police thought the passenger was "acting suspicious." Police said he told them he thought he might be robbed, and he notified his dispatcher of this "in such a way as not to raise the passenger's suspicion."

Police said the dispatcher then contacted the San Francisco Police Department, which in turn halted the cab at Army and Mission streets in San Francisco.

Among the money was an old five dollar bill with a silver disc taped on it. The bill, police said, was identified as similar to one removed from the cash register at the lounge.

The other two robbers are at large, police said.

Bruno Mtn. Future to Be Discussed

A discussion of the future of San Bruno Mountain will highlight the general meeting of the Environmental Quality Coordinating Council of San Mateo County Thursday. The meeting is set for 8 p.m. at Millbrae City Hall, 621 Magnolia Street.

Officials of Creeker Land Company and San Mateo County will be on hand to explore the impact of Jockey's plans for a balanced community of some 33,000 people on the north Peninsula environment.

The meeting is intended to clarify issues surrounding San Bruno Mountain prior to hearings scheduled by the Local Agency Formation Commission in December, according to Mrs. Marion Softy, executive secretary of the environmental watchdog organization.

The commission will attempt to assign "spheres of influence" in relationship to cities surrounding the unincorporated land mass. Such designations are used as guidelines by the commission in deciding annexation proposals.

The first LAFCO hearing is set for December 7 at 9:30 a.m. in Daly City Hall. A LAFCO consultant has recommended merger of Burlingame with Daly City as the most economical governmental entity to control the proposed development of the mountain.

Also on the agenda are a report by County Public Health Engineer Henry Eich on the Army Corps of Engineers proposal for large scale land disposal of sewage on the San Mateo County coastline, and admission of new members to EQCC.

New Office Training Plan In Daly City

The "grand opening" of a new company in the Office Occupations Center of San Mateo County Schools was held at 151 Eighty-seventh Street, Daly City.

Students involved in the Office Simulation are enrolled in the Office Occupations Program (RTP), San Mateo County schools. The simulation revolves around operation of a branch office of "Lester-Hill Corporation." Students rotate positions to allow learning various jobs. Work flow revolves around sales, purchasing and cash control. Different departments supervised by a general manager are sales, warehouse, traffic, and accounting. In the accounting department a payroll clerk "bills" employees weekly.

In addition to the Office Simulation, programmed, diagnostic and individual learning activities are used in training students to develop marketable office skills. Skills taught include typing, filing, business arithmetic, spelling, grammar, punctuation, telephone techniques, and the operation of duplicating, transcribing and ten-key adding machines.

The Daly City Office Occupations Program, initiated by the San Mateo County Board of Education is beginning its third year of operation. The center, operating year-round is a realistic office setting. Other Office Occupations Programs operating are in Redwood City and Burlingame. The programs are open to San Mateo County out-of-school youth and adult residents.

S.F. Airport Guard Jailed

Fred Fegen, 25, 628 Canyon Drive, Pacifica, a security officer at San Francisco International Airport, was arrested last week on charges of possessing marijuana, and possessing, furnishing, or transportation of marijuana for sale.

He was arrested on a warrant issued by Judge Walter P. Capriccoli of the Northern Judicial District Municipal Court, and is appear in that court at 9 a.m. December 11, for arraignment. Fegen was booked at the San Mateo County jail in Redwood City, and released after posting $1500 bail.

Airport Security Chief Ed Nevin said Fegen was immediately suspended from his job.

THANKSGIVING MAY BE over but the memory of holiday remains. Around the county there were many celebrations. A school just wasn't "with it" unless they enacted the traditional "Thanksgiving Feast. One such group was the Olympic School in Daly City which covered a lot of history at just one sitting — the landing of the Pilgrims on the Good

Ship Mayflower and the harvest feast attended by the friendly Indians and New Settlers. Children wore locally manufactured costumes and got in the spirit of things with an occasional Indian whoop. With that out of the way the kids now settle down to await the arrival of Old St. Nick. (Post Photo)

Public Meeting on Coast Controls

Bay Area residents will have an opportunity to respond to a controversial plan developed by the Association of Bay Area Governments for the region's 247 miles of ocean coastlines.

A final public hearing on the plan will be held in San Mateo on Wednesday, December 6, 7:30 p.m. at the San Mateo County Council Chambers, 6000 El Camino Real.

ABAG's Ocean Coast Plan and preliminary studies have been underway since 1968. The plan, approved by ABAG's Ocean Coast Committee and Executive Committee, will be part of the Bay Area's Regional Plan.

The plan can be used immediately as an interim plan by the Bay Area's Coastal Commission established with the passage of Proposition 20, the coastal initiative, on November 7. This means that the Bay Area is far ahead of the rest of the state in coastal planning.

ABAG's plan recommends saving all open space lands and waters along the coast that are either high in open space value or present a threat to the public safety if developed.

Areas of high open space value include marine and coastal wildlife reserves, prime agricultural and grazing lands, watersheds, or scenic and recreational areas.

Areas with hazards to public safety include those with steep slopes or land prone to landslides, erosion, earthquakes, floods or tidal wave hazards.

The plan reflects a view that the ocean coastline is not ordinary real estate for sale to the highest bidder. The plan states that "Overall, no use of any coastal resource should be allowed which damages or degrades that resource or which negatively affects coastal character."

There are over 128,000 acres in the primary coastal area of the Bay Area that would have to be developed. Of this amount 75 percent has either environmental hazards such as seismic fault line or would conflict with recreational or special agricultural use, or would eliminate a natural habitat.

The plan shows 37,000 acres that is both developable and does not conflict with high open space values or severe hazards; there may be a necessary reduction in the present degree of development upon the private land owned as the primary means of transport.

In some spots along the coast, the plan recommends no growth because development would place inappropriate pressures on nearby open space. Also, development of many of the water and sewer facilities and the outlying areas would greatly increase the need for public services like water supplies, sewers and more roads. This causes increases in property taxes and tax assessments on land and eventually leads to unwise use of the limited coastal lands, according to the ABAG report.

When the ocean coastline plan is finally approved by ABAG's Executive Committee, it will also be used as a basis for review of projects using federal funds in areas of transportation.

Also, development of many of the water and sewer facilities and the outlying areas would greatly increase the need for public services like water supplies, sewers and more roads. This causes increases in property taxes and tax assessments on land and eventually leads to unwise use of the limited coastal lands, according to the ABAG report.

Graybar Electric Company, Inc., of South San Francisco, has announced appointment of W. J. Nafziger as manager of the south San Francisco branch. W. J. Nafziger has been selected field sales manager. Nafziger, a former San Mateo resident, returns to the Bay Area from Sacramento where he had been branch manager. Wayne Chaney comes to the Bay Area from Boise, Idaho.

Drive-in Aide Held As Suspect

The assistant night manager of the Jack in the Box Drive-In restaurant in San Bruno was arrested Thursday along with another man and charged with burglarizing his own business.

Two unidentified juveniles told police they saw Milton W. Jones, 21, of 1412 El Camino Real, Burlingame, and Anthony Paul Cervantes, 20, an unemployed cook of 372 C Street, South San Francisco, rifling a cash register inside the restaurant at 1700 El Camino Real about 10:10 p.m.

Police arrived to find the building empty and a window forced open. The two boys who first tipped off police concerning a description of the suspect's car and later identified the men as being these men inside the building, police said.

Police said there was no cash in the register at the time of the burglary.

Live Santa In Bruno

For the two weeks preceding Christmas the San Bruno Jaycees will deliver to local homes one live Santa Claus who will bring each child a gift supplied by the parents and picked up the previous day by a Jaycee, talk with him, pose with him for pictures and share his delight over the present. A five dollar donation to the Jaycees general fund may be the best investment this holiday.

The Jaycees plan on supplying Santa in the San Bruno, Daly City, South San Francisco and Millbrae areas. However, as requests come in from outside areas, they may expand.

S.S.F. Man Found Dead

Michael Raczyński, 24, of 309 Denard Way, South San Francisco, was found dead Thursday at the home of his employer, the contractor's office records. The employer, McClellan Patterson, 165 Francisco Drive, owner of Viking Paint Company, told investigators that Raczyński had informed him at the Brentwood Bowl Wednesday evening that he had been given some medication by a girl friend. Raczyński kept falling asleep while talking to him. Patterson reported.

The store owner related that about 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, he saw Raczyński sitting in his car outside the Patterson home, so he took him into the house and put him to bed.

Millbrae School Fire Damage to Be Fixed

Meeting at the conference center on November 20, the Millbrae School District Board of Education discussed the fire damage to the center in the office at Taylor School and authorized Business Manager John Lynch to proceed with arrangements for repairs and material replacements as necessary. Damage is estimated at about $15,000 to $15,000.

They discussed regulations regarding classified employees and will continue this at their next meeting, to be held December 4, at Green Hills School.

Warrants from Oct. 20 through Nov. 14, totaling $41,470, were approved.

The school lunch report indicated that over 17,000 lunches had been served during the month, with receipts of $16,095. Almost 2,000 of the lunches were free to needy children.

District objectives teams have been selected and include Fine Arts: Jan March; Jan Kallias; Mary Hennan; Elsie Keldner; Foreign Language: Frank Upchurch; John Adamson. Physical Education: Greg Chell; Ken Benner; Health: Joyce Dang; Rufus Clapp.

During the personnel session, the board approved the employment of Mrs. Mary Griffin, Mrs. Lydia Hughes, Mrs. Sharron L. Berliant as substitute teachers. Mrs. Christine Grech as substitute Cafeteria employee.

Supervisors Favor Four-Lane Bypass

A resolution affirming the County Board of Supervisors' long-standing support for a four-lane, 6.3-mile bypass of curvy, dangerous Cabrillo Highway in the Devil's Slides area on the San Mateo County coastline was adopted by a 4 to 0 vote of the board last week.

The action was the latest in the continuing situation which has seen the state change its stand from a two-lane highway, with passing lanes, to a four-lane roadway with grading to permit an eventual six lanes. A Federal Court suit filed by the Sierra Club has prevented opening of bids for the first phase of the estimated $18 million project. A decision on the matter is scheduled December 5, with the State Division of Highways planning to open bids for the project the next day.

Meanwhile, State Sen. Arlen Gregorio had obtained approval of the Senate Transportation Committee for a resolution requiring the State Department of Public Works to limit grading for the bypass between Pacific and Half Moon Bay Airports, to a four-lane width, with construction to be two lanes, with truck passing lanes.

However, County Engineer S. J. Cantwell Jr. reported to the board Tuesday that Sen. Gregorio had agreed that it would be impossible to approve the resolution in the legislature before adjournment this year, with a resultant delay in anything being done to construct the bypass.

Cantwell proposed adoption of the resolution stating the board's endorsement of the wider highway, reporting that a delay to change plans would hold up construction for two to three years, would result in construction of an unsafe facility merging of passing lanes into through traffic lanes and would result in substantial cost increase if subsequent widening is required, along with undesirable effects to aesthetics.

Mrs. Olive Mayer, of Woodside, a spokesman for conservationists opposing the wider highway, renewed her opposition before the board Tuesday, claiming the route endorsed by supervisors, will, if constructed, result in a "massive wall down the coast." She said there will be cuts and fills 12 to 20 stories in height.

Furthermore, she claimed, the board had never held public hearings concerning the bypass. This was challenged by board members, who claimed there have been numerous hearings on the matter since 1958.

YWCA Plans New Center In San Bruno

Excitement and commitment were very present at the community planning meeting held in San Bruno last week at the San Bruno Community Methodist Church, 360 El Camino Real, by the San Mateo County YWCA.

Present at the meeting were: From the San Mateo County YWCA — Tina Williams, Edna Holmstrom, Bette Myerson and Helen Kinel; from the San Francisco YWCA — Elizabeth Campbell, Bernice Hemphill, Audrey Doughty, Vernetta Hill, Elsa Strait and Madrid Hamilton; from Shepard Associates — Julia Shepard and Marilyn Eggers.

From San Bruno Park and Recreation Department — Michael Kiely, Michael Douner and Eleanor Muto; from AAUW — Jo Anne Lobos; Daily City and Betty Thomsen; South San Francisco; from the San Bruno Community Methodist Church — Roberta Marr, Be Leonard and Reverend Lewis Whitehead. Others included the vice mayor of San Bruno, Mrs. Margaret Kozkowski; South San Francisco and San Bruno Information Center — Gloria Rodriguez; San Bruno Park School Dept. — Dr. Retman; Arriba Juntio — Joann Swanson, San Francisco; Burlingame-Hillsborough Newcomers — Nancy Pasternak, Red Oaks — Linda Schutte, Burlingame.

In all, 25 people braved the rain to meet and to make a commitment to the community.

The subject for the evening was the YWCA coming into the community, how it could work with the community, how the new center could best be utilized and what resources were available.

The center will be on the lower floor of the San Bruno Methodist Church, 360 El Camino Real, and be held from Monday morning through Sunday night. The center will have seven small classrooms, a reception office, an office for the director, a large meeting or music room (on a shared basis), a large room that could be used for children, exercise or other large activities, and a nursery. There is plenty of parking space and a fenced area for outdoor activity especially for children.

New programs to begin in January will include setting and crafts and bridge, for others see schedule from San Mateo County classes.

Mrs. Margaret Kozkowski, vice mayor, has volunteered to be membership chairman. Mrs. Roberta Marr will handle publicity and Nancy Pasternak volunteered to teach Spanish.

Other classes requested are sewing classes, English classes, photography, parent-child observation classes, drama workshop for all ages, table setting instructions, pre-crisis counseling for parents.

It was stated that 70 per cent of the people in this area are able to walk to most activities. Other areas need transportation. Volunteers are needed. Also materials such as games, recreation equipment, musical instruments, toys, audio-visual equipment, etc. are needed. The center will open in January and there are tentative plans for a Christmas party to which people in the community could drop in.

Camp Fire Girl Dispatches

Daly City Camp Fire leaders held an information-packed leaders meeting at the home of Mrs. Richard Pollastrini.

Mrs. William Schoepp, leader-chairman, presided at the meeting and announced that the Sustaining Membership Drive was drawing to a close.

All Camp Fire parents and friends who've not previously sent in a tax deductible donation were urged to do so immediately — to the leader or directly to the Camp Fire office in San Francisco.

The Camp Fire girls gift wrap booth at Serramonte shopping center opened the day after Thanksgiving. The week for Daly City leaders and mothers to work in the booth is December 11-16. Anyone who has not signed up for a three-hour shift was requested to contact Mrs. Scheopp. The booth is located in the mall, near the Ranch Inn.

A Christmas theater party will be held this year but final details will be forthcoming.

A new telephone team was selected to let leaders know details of the Christmas party and any other news that comes up during the year. The telephoners will be Marge Pasternack, Vicki Schnaars, and Trini Butler.

A craft workshop will be held Decemoer 12, at 10 a.m. Miss Jerry Denton and Miss Merwyn Reeves from the American Handicraft store will do the training and those persons present will make a mini decoupage, a clear cast and a pin holder.

Camp Fire leaders planning to attend must contact Mrs. Schoepp before December 8.

DALY CITY'S Camp Fire girls held a successful father-daughter bowling tournament recently. About 100 father-daughter combinations bowled two games at Westlake Bowl. In cases where there was more than one Camp Fire girl in a family or a girl's father wasn't able to bowl, the girls took an uncle, grandfather or friend.

First, second, and third place trophies were awarded to the father-daughter combinations with the highest totals in two categories. Camp Fire girls and Jr. Hi Discovery were one category and Bluebirds were in the other category.

First place in the Camp Fire division went to Kathryn and Howard Smith with a combined total for the two games of 499. Brenda Smith and Henry Dosdorian came in second with a total of 489 and Cheryl Eckley and Tim DeLury had 454 which gave them third place.

First place in the Bluebird division went to Brenda Silverman and Philip Giddings with a score of 400. Karen Koerpel and Mervin Koerpel came in second with 322 and Heidi Flato and Tom Moran had 311 which gave them third place.

Trophies were also awarded to the two girls in each division who scored the highest totals. The Camp Fire girls who received them were Jackie Ryan with 230 and Linda Fithian with 160. In the Bluebird division Valerie Hanick won with 70 and Donna Brewer was second with

Staging Is Completed

The Pacifica Spindrift Players announce that casting has been completed for their next production, an adaption of the fairy tale "The Emperor's New Clothes."

The large cast includes Diana King and Lori Guardino as the two jesters, Mark Robertson as the Emperor, Mike Henley as the Magi, Paula Ercoli as the Empress, Carolyn Spinosa in the dual role of Brunhilda and one of the tailors, Kellie Goodwin as the second tailor, Jeff Foster as Prince Hal, Bonnie Missadi and Karen King as the two guards, Coral Crull as Belinda, Janet Amezcua as the old lady and Chelan Crull as the child.

Among the street people, beggars, entertainers will be found: Peggy Twedie, Tim Hamack, Calyanna Crull, Charla Crossman, Alice Amezcua, Martina Armbrust, Sharla Porter, Bill Jones and Elizabeth Franklin.

Performances will be December 22, 23, 29 and 30 at 8:30 p.m. at Oddstad Park, 1100 block of Crespi Drive, Pacifica. Tickets will be available at the door.

Future of San Bruno to Be Discussed in March

Taxpayers, educators, business and professional men and women, representatives of local organizations, people interested in community beautification and sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and which will be held at Skyline College. The Congress is, in essence, an old-fashioned all-day New England town hall meeting updated.

Similar Congresses for Community Progress have been successfully held in Long Beach, Redwood City, San Carlos, Watsonville, Healdsburg, Fortuna, Chico, Petaluma, Fairfield-Suisun.

March 17th marks the date of sun. Tracy. Ukiah. Martinez. San Bruno's first Congress for Los Molinos. Oakland Hill Area. Community Progress which is and Willits ... and San Bruno intends to add its name to this Gas and Electric Co., San Francisco, and co-founder of San Francisco's first electric streetcar line.

The Project Committee of the Congress held its second meeting Tuesday, to outline guidelines common to all communities in San Bruno in order to design a questionnaire which will be sent to every home in the city hopefully in January. The Committee worked under the guidance of William Siden, co-ordinator of Community Services for Pacific roughly listed for residents in future comments.

After the questionnaires are mailed and answers are received from people in the community, major topics of concern will be determined for panel discussions at the Congress.

The next meeting of the project Committee will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 28, at Skyline College in order to finalize the questionnaire and its contents.

Louanne Heath

"Boutique Days Are Here" and the usual flurry of sales is very evident on the north Peninsula. Mary's Help Hospital Guild's annual Boutique de Noel debuted on Thursday before a packed assembly of the hospital's solarium and this Saturday the ladies of Holy Angels parish will kick off their holiday bazaar.

Mrs. John Lagomarsino, publicity chairman for the Holy Angels Women's Guild, reports that this year's boutique has been arranged by Mrs. Robert Simon, Mrs. Clark Kerns and Mrs. James Arena, all of whom will be on hand both days of the sale to help shoppers find just the right gift, decoration or fancy food.

The boutique will open December 3, following the 5:30 p.m. mass and will reopen on December 4 after each mass. Coffee and doughnuts will be served to browsers.

The display tables will be set up in the Holy Angels parish hall, 107 San Pedro Road, Colma, and the general public is invited to drop in and do a bit of holiday shopping.

THE RIORIAN GUILD and the members of the Marianist Assistance Group will join forces to present a Holiday Boutique and Wine Tasting on December 3, in Chamaine Hall of the Riorian High School campus, 175 Phelan Avenue in San Francisco.

Mrs. Richard Otis, publicity chairman for the guild notes that the committee which has been arranging the details for the event is extremely proud of the variety of items which will be offered for sale as well as the general format of the afternoon.

Decorations for every room in the house will be displayed with unique gifts that have been especially created for this boutique. Mrs. John Spring, chairman of the plant table, reports that there will be dozens of elegant plants for home or giving. Mrs. Dan Keohan assures everyone that the white elephant table will be one of the popular attractions and, as usual, the home baked items will be in abundant supply. Santa Claus will wander about to entertain the youngest guests, and for the slightly more mature visitors, the Marianist Assistance Fund Wine Festival Tasting Room will offer an opportunity to relax, refresh and visit.

Hours for the double barreled benefit will be 1 to 6 p.m. Mrs. Raymond Murphy is general chairman. "SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS" being sponsored by the Presbyterian Hospital of the Pacific Medical Center, will be held on December 3 in the Great American Music Hall in San Francisco, according to Mrs. Murray H. Freedman.

Singer Dale Corliss will take time from his stint at Plavins to appear on the party program and present a musical review, Santa's Show, which has been created by the choreographer-entertainment chairman, Amy Powell Reilly.

Tickets, costing $2.50 each are available from Mrs. Freedman or Mrs. R. L. Ariani, or through the Presbyterian Hospital, 931-6000. The public is invited to attend, enjoy the show and sample the mulled wine and hearty hors d'oeuvres.

Assisting with the party are localities Mrs. Bruce Bosley, Mrs. Aldo Mori, Mrs. Albert D'Aloisio, Mrs. Edna Van Koughnet.

MRS. NEMER J. GONZALES of the Holy Angels Latin Club reports that, to date, about 50 gifts have been collected for the annual Christmas party. The club stages the festival for the underprivileged children of the Daly City-Colma area and party committee members are now hopeful of enlisting the aid of other organizations in hosting the holiday gala for approximately 300 children.

Annually the children are invited to attend the party and all those attending are treated to candy, cake, cookies and hot dogs. Presents are given out, games are played and clowns entertain. The entire project is expensive to produce and a financial crisis within the Latin Club may cause a curtailment unless individuals from the community at large or other organizations volunteer to assist. Contributions of small gifts, costing no more than $1, are needed as well as financial assistance. If you, or your group, can donate time, money or gifts, contact Mrs. Gonzalez, 992-3591.

MEMBERS of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild will hold their annual Christmas cocktail party on Friday, December 8.

Reservations are now available from Mrs. Frank Lawson, 173 Westlawn Avenue, Daly City, or Mrs. Frank Falconi, 166 Westlawn Avenue, Daly City.

NORTH PENINSULA Circle for the Florence Crittenton Home will hold its annual Christmas (Please See Page 20, Column 3)

Millbrae Resident Merits Recognition for Service

Joan Navekas Germain of Millbrae, who has worked in the field of international relations for 25 years, has been selected to have her biography appear in the Dictionary of International Biography.

The listing cites Mrs. Germain for her "distinguished service in international relations" which has included organizing, instructing and lecturing on goodwill, communication and respect among all children and all peoples of the world.

Cookie-Candy Sale Scheduled

At Daly City Site

A Cookie-Candy Sale will be sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women on December 9 and 10 at Our Lady of Mercy Church Parish Hall, 7 Elmwood Drive, Daly City.

Christmas decorations made by members also will be sold during the two-day event. The sale will start following the 5:30 p.m. Mass Saturday, and on Sunday it will be conducted following all Masses which take place 7 a.m. through 12:15 p.m.

Mrs. Lindy Viglitz is chairman assisted by Mrs. George San Pietro.

The locale has received several awards, resolutions and commendations from the U.S. Department of State, USIA, and Voice of America. She has received praises for her work from President Nixon, former vice president Hubert Humphrey, former governor Pat Brown, Governor Reagan and various other political figures. Her work also has been lauded by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors and the City Council.

Her awards include a bronze seal of the City of Millbrae.

CREATIVE SEWING will be featured at Cadette troop No. 8's fashion show, Wednesday evening, November 29, at the 8:30 p.m. their parents and friends gather at Colma Intermediate school at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Bianca Casazza will moderate the event.

Models and hostesses include Carmen Carillo, Catherine and Elizabeth Casazza, Debbie Crawford, Rhonda Curtis, Regina Gagen, Lori Golden, Rhonda Hardy, Gloria Jimenez, Lynda Jones, Leanne Lenke, Pam Moll, Ruth Morokowicz, Vicky Morino, Gail Sykes, Debbie Thurman, Laura Tschirgi, Paulette Young and Maria Yuzon.

LIAISONS will contact all leaders to remind them of December events including the pot luck luncheon, according to Association Chairman Mrs. Margaret Connolly.

CANDLELIGHTING investiture and rededication ceremonies were the recent highlight of troop No. 446's welcoming of four new girls: Marve Milton, Marilyn Drexler, Elizabeth R. Radilla and Christine Browne.

Rededicated to Scouting were Denise and Doreen Brignall, Alice Byrne, Lisa Carroll, Diane Bugler, Kim Elder, Day-na Figue, Nanette and Renee Furell, Laurie and Susan Wyshoka, Jennifer Hicks, Lianne Knox, Adrienne Kustan, Cindy Mattson, Linda and Lisa Prado, Donna Subbottan, Ellen Sorensen, Tamara Welzel, Michelle Wickinson and Barbara Washburn.

A STONEHOUSE weekend at Rethan as the girls worked on Rumbler, and Observer badges became part of the program of OLM troop No. 1834, led by Mrs. Pat Mudge and Mrs. Ann O'Gorman.

Veronica McVeigh, Evelyn Barrett, Pam Rignardi, Stacey Breslin, Karen Carillo, Diane Cantwell, Sandra Cantwell, Dana Costello, Jean Fahy, Joanne Fitzpatrick, Kimmy Gallagher, Donna Gacterno, Santita Jones, Mary Lou Kueber, Kathleen Maghani, Mary Magnani, Erin Mathews, Karen Medina, Judy Mudge, Eileen Murray, Sarah Murray, Dee Dee O'Gorman, Lorry Phillips, Nadine Reich, Patricia Riemer, Dana Simpson and Cecilia Wenquest also enjoyed a picnic lunch and games in Golden Gate Park.

GREATEST CHANGES were evidenced in the move to one and a half hour sessions which replaces the ten previous sessions, according to South San Francisco Association Chairman Mrs. Laura Glantz, a Dallas convention delegate.

"Many members have felt for some time that more contemporary wording is needed," John Holland, Jr., immediate Council Past President stated to this newspaper. Mrs. Peter Arnsen, presently the Council head, from Alherton, agreed brunch in the Alherton home of Mrs. H. Robinson Plate.

Mrs. Plate will be aided by brunch chairman Mrs. Paul Hupt, circle president Mrs. Frank Greenwood, Mrs. Richard Ceconi, Mrs. Angelo Carmassi and Mrs. Dennis Franco.

"GETTING TO KNOW YOU," a pot luck dinner being planned by the Police and Community Relations Committee, has been tentatively slated for the War Memorial building on January 20, according to Mrs. Nemer J. Gonzalez.

The committee hopes to involve all the local ethnic groups in this community-wide undertaking and plans call for a sumptuous repast made up of the most delectable dishes of each culture.

The next organizing meeting will be held in the Referral and Information Center, 6636 Mission Street across from the War Memorial building, December 18 at 7:30 p.m. Individuals and persons representing other groups within the Daly City-Colma area are invited to attend and take part. Additional information is available from Mrs. Gonzalez, 992-3591.

EDUCATIONAL TOYS for the newly opened child care centers at the San Francisco Jail and at the Bessie Carmichael School, across from the Hall of Justice in San Francisco, are among the needs of Friends Outside during this pre-holiday season, according to Mrs. Louise Enberg.

The organization is preparing to provide a Christmas party for the children of prisoners on December 20 and goodies — small toys and candy — will have to be provided to stuff hundreds of stockings for these deprived children. Mrs. Mona Smith of Delta Gamma sorority has arranged for members of the sorority to be on hand to help with the festivities in the social hall of Lakeside Presbyterian Church. Anyone wishing to donate time, funds or goodies should call the Friends Outside office, 661-6900.

Terra Nova Topics

By DENISE BARR

A lot of compliments have been given to TV student body secretary, David Bier, concerning the Executive Board minutes.

Dave came up with the idea of illustrating his Executive Board minutes and adding a little humor to each report.

For example, at the top of one page of minutes he wrote in capital letters: "SEX," then, "now that I have your attention, you may now read the minutes."

Next to an account of an Executive Board dinner, he drew a picture of what they had to eat at the affair. Dave has resumed the attendance portion of the minutes, the "Rock and Roll Call," and one example of his wit in that section is:

"Marie Campillo, representative from the Spirit Staff, was evidently in poor spirits and did not show up for the meeting." Dave once titled the minutes, the "Executive Board-tons."

I started writing the minutes with humor and drawings because no one was reading the minutes, claim Dave. I thought, Mr. Panagoulas would get mad. But I found that he has a sense of humor, too.

Despite the humor in his accounts, Dave gets across what went on at the board meetings. Because of the drawings and witty reports, more teachers and students are reading the minutes.

More people know what is going on around the school. Kids get attracted to Dave's illustrations and go on to read the minutes to find out what the picture is about.

Before Dave took office, most students didn't know there were any Executive Board minutes available to read. Now, the minutes are very much talked about.

Editor-in-Chief of Tiger Tales, Mary Van Zant, along with this columnist, attended the San Francisco Examiner Conference for High School Editors November 11.

Riordan Guild, Marinist Fund To Hold Sale

The Riordan Guild and Marinist Assistance Fund will present a boutique and wine tasting festival on Dec. 3 from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the Riordan High School, 175 Phelan Avenue, San Francisco.

Mrs. Raymond Murphy, chairman of Riordan Guild Boutique, said she has had some very talented help in making the boutique an interesting affair.

"There will be home decoration items and gifts for the 'very hard to buy for' person on Christmas shopping lists," Mrs. Murphy said.

Also available will be plants, many in attractive containers, according to Mrs. John Spring, Plant Chairman.

Homemade cookies and candies attractively decorated for the holidays can be purchased. And Mrs. Dan Keohane has a fine White Elephant sale.

William Wittmers Wed in Campbell

St. Lucy's Church in Campbell was the setting Sunday afternoon for the marriage of Kathryn M. Rohrig and William W. Wittmers, who are now honeymooning in Los Angeles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Rohrig Jr. of Santa Clara. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Wittmers of South San Francisco.

When Kathryn said her vows, she was dressed in a white satin gown which featured a portrait neckline, tapered lace sleeves with ruffled cuffs, and a modified Empire waistline with an attached chapel length train trimmed in Chantilly lace. The bride completed her look with an elbow length veil secured by a pearl and lace headpiece.

Cymbidium orchids and white carnations were arranged in the bride's bouquet. Kathryn also carried a prayer book belonging to her mother, Pamela Wells, the maid of honor, wore a burgundy velvet dress with pink chiffon sleeves and a burgundy headpiece. Similar costumes with pink headpieces were chosen by bridesmaids Barbara Hewitt, Rosey Lavoie and Mary Rohrig, the bride's sister.

Each of the attendants carried a bouquet of pink carnations and pink baby roses.

Allen Toschi stood with William as best man, and guests were seated by Robert Rohrig III, brother of the bride, and Richard Sunseri, the bride's cousin.

Immediately following the three o'clock ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests at a reception at the American Legion Post in Santa Clara. They will make their first home in San Jose.

A graduate of Santa Clara High School, the bride is now enrolled at Bryant and Stratton Business College. Her husband, an alumnus of South San Francisco High School, completed his education at the College of San Mateo.

Newcomers Slate Activities

A full calendar of events has been scheduled for next month by the Millbrae Newcomers Club.

Members will usher in the holiday season on December 7 when they gather for their monthly luncheon meeting at the Airport Marina in Burlingame. An 11:30 a.m. social hour will precede the 12:30 luncheon for which Kathy Flanagan is accepting reservations.

The Capuchino Choir, directed by Kenneth Ton, will sing Christmas carols at the group's luncheon. The Littlest Angel will be enacted in dance by Vicki Ashby.

New members who will be introduced during the day include Helen Finney, Marcia McGuire, Joan Paihe and Pat Denton.

The annual Dessert Bridge for couples will take place on December 8 at the Town Square Apartments Recreation Room. Dorothy Anton and Nancy Stover are co-chairmen of the 9 p.m. event.

Also scheduled for the month is the club's Yuletide Ball which will take place on December 16 in the Ambassador Room at the Airport Plaza Hotel in Millbrae. The Bob Smith Quartet will entertain at the dinner dance for which Vivienne Creighton is chairman.

'Jack, Beanstalk' Slated at Hillbarn

"Jack and the Beanstalk" will be presented by the Hillbarn Theatre of Foster City, as the second production of its current season. The show will be done in the form of traditional English pantomime, which is always presented during the month of December to coincide with the Christmas season.

While the Hillbarn version will be somewhat scaled down in production magnitude, it will nevertheless offer its audience (children of all ages) moments of true love, the thrills of adventure, the excitement of the chase, and a dancing cow.

According to Derek Charney, who is directing the show, "Jack and the Beanstalk" has a little of something for everyone. Singing and dancing are featured, along with the misadventures of Mr. Egg, the Bailiff, and his assistant Mr. Chips portrayed by Merrill Hansen of San Mateo and Don Burda of Sunnyvale respectively.

The romantic leads, Jill and Jack, are portrayed by Cheryl Loyd of San Mateo, and Kent Kollings of Palo Alto. Odorous Egg, the sinister sister of Mr. Egg, is shown through the talents of Katrina Politz of Foster City. Widow Twankey, Jack's poor, harassed and frustrated mother will come to life through the fine interpretation of Beverly Case of Hillsborough. Seen as the Old Lady, the "Moor of Good Things" will be Darjeel Dorman of San Mateo.

The cast is supported by a technical crew which consists of Sue McNaair, production manager and musical director, Betty Eichler, musical director and pianist, Karen Robinson, lights, Roberta McNaair, sound, Sue Kollings, properties, Ann Bakewell, script-publicity, Bill Kirscher, photography.

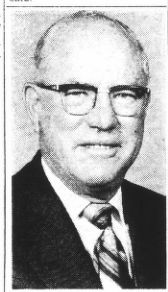

The show opens December 1 for three weekends through December 16. Performances Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Saturdays at 1 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Admission: Children, 75 cents and Adults, $1.50.

Shears Spear Youth's Neck

A 12-year-old Redwood City boy suffered a deep wound in the neck Saturday evening when he was struck by a pair of grass shears thrown by another youngster, the sheriff's office reports.

Chris Murga, 609 Hurlingham Avenue, was treated at Sequoia Hospital, where attendants said the point of the shears opened a deep, three-inch gash. He was later released.

Deputy Frank Dal Porto reported that the youth who threw the shears was also 12 years old. The incident occurred near the Murga home about 6:30 p.m., apparently as the result of the Murga boy grabbing a ball belonging to the other youth running off with it, the deputy said.

Edgar J. Ross, of Foster City, will close a 44-year career with Pacific Gas and Electric Company December 1 upon his retirement as supervising mechanical engineer and head for the past 16 years of the architectural design group in the PG&E civil engineering department.

Bond Issue Sold For Completion Of Foster City

Although a few years behind the original plan's time schedule, the bonds for the completion of Foster City were sold this week.

The $13,311,000 sale in San Mateo Monday was the largest single block of Estero Municipal Improvement District bonds sold since the district came into being in 1960 and the first to be sold through competitive bidding.

Paragon Securities and Co., Inc. of West Orange, N.J., was low bidder, at an interest rate of 6.75 per cent. "This is the best sale we've ever had," Mayor William E. Walker enthused to bond sale formerly had been made by negotiation.

This was the last large bond issue for the Estero district, which was formed with an authorization to sell $85 million worth of bonds.

The money will be used for future city's last remaining undeveloped spaces, including neighborhoods six, seven and eight south of East Hillsdale Boulevard, the town center on the north across from Central Park, and part of the industrial tract south of East Third Avenue.

Streets and water and sewer lines also will be part of the project, which Walker estimated may take two to three years to complete. The work will be done in phases, he indicated, which means the various neighborhoods will be built at different times.

Planning and paperwork will be done this winter with the construction work hopefully to begin next spring, Walker said.

"This is going to mean a lot to San Mateo County in terms of construction jobs and the economy," Walker said.

There is about $5½ million left in bond authorization, but Walker said he thought this would be held as a contingency fund. "We probably will use it for cleanup after this project is about 80 per cent complete," he said.

The Estero board of directors earlier this year formed special assessment districts in the new neighborhoods, which total present 200 acres, with the eventual landowners there to foot the bond redemption costs.

Prior to this the Estero bonds had been spread over the tax base of the entire district, meaning the residents and other land buyers paid for improvements in any neighborhood.

It was the controversy over this method of financing and the capitalized interest furor over bond sales, starting in 1967, that, which Walker estimated eventually to Foster City's incorporation in 1971.

Nestle Holds Onto Lead in
D.C. Softball

The Daily City Adult Softball league, sponsored by the Daily City Recreation Division moved into its fourth week of play holding on to first place by a one game margin over the Master Batters.

Ralph McDonald pitched and hit this team to a 16 to 6 win over Melody Toyota. In this game Ralph had four hits and kept the Toyota men off balance with his excellent pitching all afternoon long. In other action, the Hillside Master Batters kept pace by retiring the Old Timers 13-2. Jim Fisher stroked 4 hits and Mike Grazzoli chipped in with 3 hits to lead the Master Batters attack. Joe Donnelly and Larry Delucchi played a great defensive game for the winners.

The prep football renaissance in the North Peninsula League this year, which saw formerly mediocre teams challenging—and beating—established powers, was reflected in voting for the 1972 Post All-County team.

The North loaded nine players on the all-senior roster, most of any league.

And this year's consensus Most Valuable Player was another NPL product.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Half Moon Bay's Bob Hunt did just about everything. And he did it all well. He was the major reason the Cougars, one-time NPL doormats, ended up tying Westmoor for the title.

Hunt played flanker and running back for the Cougars. He earned the ball 128 times for 748 yards, a 5.8 average, and nine TDs. He caught 22 passes for 300 yards, a 17.2 average, and four TDs. Hunt also ran back 12 punts for 177 yards and one TD, and scored another TD on an interception return.

The 5-11, 175-pound flash ended up scoring 15 touchdowns and 15 conversions for a total of 195 points. He was also one of the two Cougars players honored as a scholar-athlete—he carried a 3.4 average at Half Moon Bay.

OFFENSIVE BACKFIELD

South San Francisco quarterback Rhod Wallace was hampered by a lack of top receivers to throw to, so his passing statistics were not breathtaking—23 of 47 for 445 yards. But he was rated as a top thrower anyway. He also carried 34 times for 206 yards (including 13 sacks) and attempted to pass.

Fullback John Hart was just about the only offense Westmoor had—and he had a case. The Rams led the CCS playoffs. He carried 152 times on the season for 213 yards, a 1.4 average, and scored ten TDs. Hart was also a standout linebacker.

San Mateo speedrunner Larry Croon carried most of the offense for his team. The 5-10, 165-pounder was the leading rusher in the NPL, gaining 589 yards in 37 carries and scoring nine TDs in his six league games. Croon was filled in well at linebacker when injuries hobbled the Bears.

Richard Nelson of Serra picked up 736 yards in 116 carries for the WCAL's co-champion team. He was a top breakout threat; his 35-yard burst against Mitty was the longest run from scrimmage this season in the WCAL. He did fine occasional work at defensive back.

THE PASS-CATCHERS

Burlingame's Dan Pasiecznik got some fine recommendations from the people who should know—defensive backs who were forced to cover him. In NPL play Pasiecznik had 21 catches for 372 yards and five touchdowns, good enough to lead the league. Pasiecznik was a super free safety on defense. He had four interceptions in one game, and easily led the league in that category.

Rick Cohn was an efficient receiver, averaging one TD catch in each of his eight league games at San Carlos. He wound up with 25 catches for 385 yards in league play.

OFFENSIVE LINE

Hillsdale tackle Rob Parsley was the second most NPL senior transfer in two years to make All-County. But in a game's best Black game, he was the star. Parsley arrived from Colorado just in time to make life miserable for MPL defensive ends on Knight sweeps. Like most of the All-County linemen, he played well both ways.

South San Francisco tackle Lynn Simmons, the tallest selectee at 6-3, carried on a fine old North Junty tradition; the Warriors finished out of their customary championship spot, but the line is still tough.

Woodside's Doug McBlane handled out bushes of bruises; he was also the other scholar-athlete honored this year. Serra guard Will Gleesner was the Padres' most valuable lineman for two straight years; he was murdered in straight-ahead blocking. Westmoor center Jeff Snyder gave Hart a little running room.

DEFENSIVE LINE

The ends, Steve Hall of Hillsdale and Mike Solari of El Camino, left opposing offensive tackles flat-footed. They were big, quick and deadly. Solari was a star in the run. He was probably the best pass-rusher around.

Tackles Jeff Peralta of Woodside, Jeff Funke of South S.F. and Stu Bringham of Westmoor are the only repeater from last year's team.

LINEBACKERS

The linebackers may be the most talented single group on the team. They're bigger and in most cases quicker than the linemen.

Burlingame's Andy Kolesnikow could have made the team at fullback—he was the MPL's leading rusher. He's a 117-pounder, and has cut a lot of power in his 6-2, 220 and 170-pound defensive weightlifting.

Serra's Vince Tammara was a fullback too, but he didn't do much running. He channeled his viciousness into blocking for All-County teammate Nelson. But he was really much more in his element as a defender.

Hillsdale's Kim Morford, brother of former All-County linebacker Kevin Morford, was great at reading plays, and was always around the ball. He started both ways (guard on offense) for two years.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

Two of the All-County defensive backs had particularly keen insight into opposing quarterbacks' minds—they were quarterbacks themselves. Half Moon Bay's Pete Peterson and Terra Nova's John Salomon both performed well offensively, but were standouts as stoppers.

Bruce Meyer may have been San Mateo's best all-around athlete; he punted, kicked off, returned punts and even played quarterback a little.

Serra's Bob Claiborne never played defensive back before this season, but no one could have guessed. He had nine interceptions for the season in perhaps the county's best secondary. He would have had more. But opposing coaches said after a while they handed out orders not to throw to Claiborne's side.

Rams Edge HMB For a CCS Berth

By JERRY LITRELL

After a rather spooky reversal that seemed more fitting for a Halloween celebration instead of a Thanksgiving game, Westmoor High School won the North Peninsula League playoff and has earned the right to face powerful Redwood in the first annual Central Coast Section Region I football championship.

Pete Matis's Ram eleven, which had shared the conference co-championship with Half Moon Bay, came back Thursday at Jefferson High's neutral field to upset the Cougars, 7-3, and even the series between the two teams at 1-1 with a complete reversal of the two teams' first meeting.

Oddly enough, HMB won that first game by a 7-2 score (also) and it was the only defeat the unheralded Rams suffered in league or practice action. And in that first meeting Westmoor won all the offensive statistical battles (except for the score) while HMB was held to a 12-yard total offense.

Thursday it was all different. The Rams could get just 24 yards total offense while HMB, led by All-Everything Bob Hunt's 97-yard output, ran up 182 yards offense.

And, as it has often felt late, the Westmoor defense came up with the big plays to insure the CCS berth.

Stapped on its second series, Westmoor was forced to punt. Kicker Chuck Colledrez, who was to have a great and at times frustrating afternoon, boomed off a 67-yarder HMB's Don Weaver made a belated attempt to field the ball was hit hard, fumbled and Darrell Kerner fell on the ball at the 13.

Fullback John Hart, who accounted for a plus 32 yards and was the sole offensive weapon at Mitty's disposal, carried the ball in from the three four plays later and that was it for the Rams offense.

Westmoor was operating without starting quarterback Harold Day, who saw action only on two series in the middle of the game and was ineffective, after the sophomore thrower had sustained a back injury in last week's NPL finale against Terra Nova.

Halfback Nick LeBlanc, who also was injured against the Tigers, saw some duty but only got minus two yards in 11 carries.

Westmoor handed the Cougars their 11th loss in the second period and again the key play was a punt—rather this time a punt attempt. Colledrez was back on his own 19 when the center snap on the punt play sailed way over his head and by the time he fell on the ball in the end zone, three Cougars fell on him for a safety. And that was it for the day's scoring.

But Westmoor defense was magnificent in the second half. It had to be. The offense kept missing things up for the Rams.

The Cougars were strapped on center snap on the punt play. (Please See Page 27, Column 1)

Miscellany

Mike White, Cal's rookie coach, showed us a lot of class when he refused to settle for a tie in the Big Game.

We were disappointed in some of his coaching techniques up to that time, and his settling for a tie would have prompted us to set up a "Bring Wilsey Back" chant. But with that one display of character, he put us on his side, for next year, anyway; and, hopefully, some of the fine young players he has who are considering transfer because of the NCAA Punishment Schedule, will consider the same philosophy.

And speaking of the NCAA ruling declaring Cal ineligible for a lot of things, including no Rose Bowl until after '73, we don't understand how a group of presumably reasonable men (perhaps that's an absurd presumption) can justify punishing an athletic department which wasn't in power at the time of the violations, and a group of kids who were high school students during the same period yet, allowing the coaches and students actually involved to go almost completely unscathed.

Not only has that august body of men probably destroyed an athletic department for a good long time, and allowed down the few coaches careers, it has almost certainly hurt a lot of college football careers.

Not that we condone what Cal representatives apparently did. But they didn't do anything that hasn't been done 10-fold by those two universities down south, at Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Alabama, et al. Cal's only crime, as we can see it, is that they got caught.

IF YOU'RE WONDERING why the Raiders aren't as exciting as they used to be, part of your answer might be found in the weekly pro statistics which haven't once shown an Oakland man among the top 10 in either kickoff or punt returns.

We have a theory that pro quarterbacks are only as important as the incompetence of their team. Translated, that means that a really great—or even very good—pro team needs only an adequate quarterback to win, but that a mediocre team needs a very good or great quarterback to be even respectable.

We have also had this wild notion for the several years since Pete Rozelle's office dictated that hallbacks and fullbacks would be known thereafter under the common heading of running backs, that there was then and has continued to be a difference between hallbacks and fullbacks.

This has been confirmed in a recent article in the Sporting News by Los Angeles writer Bob Oates, who took a random poll of NPL coaches and learned that every coach he interviewed still refers to his "running backs" as hallbacks and fullbacks.

What it amounts to is that hallbacks tend to run in different directions than fullbacks (hitting the line at diagonals), while fullbacks tend to run straight into the line and generally have more blocking responsibilities.

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW how old you're getting? Mention something about Hugh McElheny to a high school football player, as we did the other day, and watch him with wide-eyed innocence say, "Who's Hugh McElheny?"

And then make it worse. Tell the prep star McElheny was the most exciting runner of his day, and hear the kid say, "No kidding? Who did he play for?"

Make yourself feel worse by thinking back to McElheny's days: days when some pro teams actually ran different formations than others, and when you could go to a game not knowing exactly what to expect.

Pro football has become so stereotyped, so scientific, that one sometimes gets the feeling he's watching a huge, animated outdoor computerized football table game. There have actually been days when John Brown looked to us like a control card.

But never fear. We have a plan which will do away with this standardized nonsense. All Rozelle has to do is ban filming of games, thus making the trading of game films impossible. Coaches would then have to rely on sober super scouts, human memory, and maybe even a little luck and innate talent, skill and imagination. Of course, coaches would no longer be able to cop-out on simple questions put to them by reporters by saying that they "won't know until I see the films". But, by golly, the fans might actually be in suspense one or two Sundays a year.

And we wish people would quit complaining about the weak officiating in all pro sports. What else can be expected with all of the wild pro expansion schedules. Competent professional officials are no easier to find than competent professional athletes.

Is there a more exciting professional athlete now playing than Nate Archibald of the Kansas City-Omaha-and-anybody-Else - Who-Wants-to-Get - Into-The-Act Kings? Little Nate is leading the NBA in both points scored (33 a game) and assists (12 a game), which means he's responsible for an incredible 57 points a game.

WE TAKE EXCEPTION to recent utterings by American League publicist Tom Monahan who claims AL superiority by noting that it holds a 41-11 edge in the 25 World Series from 1947-72, and a 11-8 margin since 1903.

What Monahan really meant is that the New York Yankees hold an edge over the National League. Throw out what it has done from '47 on and the rest of the league has won only five of those 15 World Series since '47. The league minus the Yanks has won just 2 of the 41 AL World Series victories since 1903. (The Yankees have a World Series winning percentage for all games of .604, followed by the Dodgers at .600.)

And what was happening n sports? during the week of November 27 in ...

1952 Navy beats Army, 7-0, to finish its season 6-2-1 for its best record in seven years. Leo Durocher simultaneously denies a rumored movie career and a Giant trade in the works for Pittsburgh super-slugger Ralph Kiner.

1962 Navy Coach Wayne Hardin charges through the press that Southern California uses illegal formations to stay undefeated. The charge comes after USC beats Navy, 13-7. (USC goes undefeated and whips Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl, 42-37.)

1967 Donnie Marshall scores two goals, including the 200th of his National Hockey League career, to spark New York to a 3-2 win over Minnesota.

1971 Rod Boone, 20-year-old Stanford junior and son of former big league Ray Boone, is voted "Sandlotter of the Year" award by the National Congress of Baseball for his outfield play with the Fairbanks (Alaska) Goldpanners.

LOCAL NOTE: Mike Rawlings, former Terra Nova AL MPL catcher, has culminated his junior college career at College of San Mateo by being selected to the American Association of College Baseball Coaches' All-American team.

Rawlings, who will be transferring to the baseball factory at Arizona State College after leading CSM to a championship, was the second leading hitter in the Golden Gate Conference last season (.365), and his heavy hitting combined with outstanding defensive work also gained him All-GGC honors, a first team placement on the All-Northern California JC squad, and GGC Most Valuable Player recognition.

Rams Gain Playoff Berth in HMB Win

the first series of the second half and punted down to the Ram 30.

LeBlanc tumbled on the first Ram play and HMB recovered. The defense stiffened, dropped quarterback Pete Peterson for an 11-yard loss and baited away two pass attempts.

After taking the HMB punt, this time on the 19 Day tumbled on a rollout play and the Cougars again recovered. Again the defense put up a solid wall, allowing the Cougars just seven yards in four plays.

It was after that inspirational play that Matsui showed faith in his running game (actually more faith in Hart, personally) as two straight times on fourth down and two-yard situations (once on their own 20 and again on their own 34) Matsui went for the first down instead of punting, bringing more than one worried look from Ram rooters.

"If we punted down there we would have given the Cougars too good field position," Matsui said. "Besides, we wanted to use up time and give ourselves some breathing room."

It worked: on the third fourth down situation the Rams punted and HMB took control on their own 15. It worked and Matsui's a hero. If either fourth down play had failed ... well, that's what coaches are paid for.

Hampered by the lamed-on defense, the Rams were not to complete a pass all day in five tries. Except for Hart, only sophomore Bob Baptista got in the plus rushing column with nine yards in three tries.

But the Rams, the county's only team with a double-figure win total (10-1), have become accustomed to doing with as little as there is available.

Hillsdale Wins The MPL Title

By STEVE JOHNSON

Post Correspondent

Hillsdale High's Knights went out like the champions they are Wednesday.

And they couldn't have done it more royally with a 32-0 rout of Aragon that clinches Hillsdale's second unbeaten Mid-State League title season in three years.

"The game peaks for itself," said a smiling Ron Anderson after the blood-letting. "You knew, our guys really didn't realize what it took to be a champ. They learned from the tie with Burlingame. Today they showed it."

Final MPL Standings: Hillsdale 10-0, Burlingame 9-1, San Bruno 8-2, Aragon 7-3, Peninsula 6-4, Burlingame 5-5, San Mateo 4-6.

Four CSM Players All Conference

By FRED BAER

Apparently Golden Gate Conference coaches agreed with College of San Mateo football mentor Ted Tollner: the Bulldogs had better material this season than their 3-4 league record would indicate.

CSM landed four players on the All-GGC first team, two each on offense and defense, with Ed Kertel gaining defensive back of the year honors.

San Mateo's other selections, all sophomores, were tight end Ron Beltramo, offensive guard Tom Douglas, and defensive guard Taki Kaudel.

Three more soph players from the league-leading Bulldog defensive unit made the second team — tackle Jim Dadaos, linebacker Vince Howard, and defensive back Al Spitzer.

"Our three interior men (Howard from El Camino, Dadaos from Carlmont, and Kaudel from Crestmoor) were instrumental in that defensive record," Spitzer noted. "All three are definite senior college prospects."

Dadaos, as an 18-year-old, soph, was among the youngest of the all-stars.

Other players honored by league coaches were linemen of the year Bob Olson of San Jose on offense and Keith Austin of Merritt on defense.

Spitzer, former Post All-County running back at El Camino, starred at safety and corner back for the Bulldogs for two seasons.

Douglas missed much of last season with a back injury but the San Carlos grad helped the team average 332.7 yards per game on offense this year, second only to Chabot's 389.4 mark.

Serramonte grad Beltramo tied the former GGC touchdown reception record of ten but Carter passed him up by catching ten TDs in just the last three games for a total of 16. Still Beltramo's 33 receptions for 316 yards produced a 14.8 average per reception, better than Carter's 14.3 pace.

Czech Bride Enjoys Her New D.C. Home

By LIN DAY

A 19-year-old Czechoslovakian bride on Friday took her first look at America from her new Daly City home and pronounced it "big, bigger and bigger yet." It is a world full of surprises for Mrs. Joseph Fecko as she arose that day from a good sleep after the long air trip from Prague.

There was the dishwasher — she had never seen one before. Then there was the huge new car in the garage. She had already marveled during her plane change stop in New York City at the masses of automobiles as big as Army tanks, it seemed — so contrasting to the few small European cars on Czech highways.

It was a new car husband Joseph, 21, had purchased this year — one far beyond the means of any Prague student. She almost broke up when she saw it," admitted Joe.

The romance which parted the iron curtain with the bright rays of young love began in 1970, when Joe accompanied his mother, a Czech native, on a visit to the old country. An aunt introduced him to Ruzena Belzar, and Joe lost no time in making a date for the evening.

"We went to a dance in a nice hall outside Bratislava," Joe recalls. He did traditional Slovak folk dances, waltzes, tango, and even a little rock.

"We held hands and talked the whole evening. We found we had a lot in common."

While his bride speaks English haltingly, having had only a year of study, Joe speaks fluent Slovak, and found conversation easy. "We learned we liked each other and enjoyed being together," Joe said.

For three weeks, the young couple were constantly together. Then Joe and his mother returned to the States. For a year, then, the boy and girl corresponded. Last year, he took a month off the works part time in a grocery store and flew to Czechoslovakia. In no time, the pair were engaged.

Last August, Joe returned again, and a big wedding was arranged.

"We were married in a civil ceremony, then we led a parade of 150 from the reception hall to the Catholic Church," Joe relates.

The bride and the best man were first, then Joe and the maid of honor. Behind them filed all the rest, by twos. When they crossed the street to the church, "we blocked traffic for half a mile," Joe says.

The honeymoon took place in a storybook setting in the Tatras Mountains, where in a beautiful hotel they swam in the pool and took long walks, daytimes up into the forests and mountains around them.

"It was not expensive," Joe said. "The best rooms were about ten dollars a day; and meals with everything, even aperitifs, only $3 for two."

But soon the honeymoon was over. Joe returned to tackle the red tape of bringing his bride home. The U.S. Consulate quickly processed the passports and visas; but it was not so easy on the other side of the curtain — although it turned out Ruzena had no passport.

He had thought it would take six months, but it was but three. First, the cost of his bride's education had to be paid for.

Ruzena had been working as an executive secretary for a large engineering firm.

"She had completed what we would call high school," Joe said. "Since she was leaving the country, that would deprive them of the return from the education expended on her," Joe explained. "So she had to pay them back."

The cost turned out to be about $500. That's 7000 Czech crowns in their money.

Then the bride had to get permission to leave her job. In her country, workers are frozen to their jobs, Joe said.

Once the education was paid for, the passport was processed. Finally, the visa — that took but a day.

Last week, Joe flew to Czechoslovakia once more, and this time brought home his happy bride, teaching her new English while she learned the ways of the States.

He is looking forward to her cooking, and candidly admits that when he first tasted her rostenka, a kind of beef rolled in pancakes, with chopped cucumbers and sour cream, and a mushroom sauce, and knedla, a sort of steamed dumpling on which the sauce is poured, he began to think of a lifetime together.

Every Corner Brings Pressure

WHILE THIS SPLENDID column is being composed (anyone can write it takes talent to "compose," I modestly confess) Daly City officials are running hither and yon checking out possible replacements for Assemblyman-Elect Lou Papan. Pressure is being mounted from every corner. Not only from the candidate Bill Schumacher, who carried his "appointment" campaign into the Council chambers last week, but a few folks (men and women) trying to collect political debts.

FLATLY WE said it was unlikely Schumacher would be named. He might have a better than average chance to win in a special election, or next time around in 1973. But he is not the favorite of the present council. Vic Kyriakis is!

SORRY ABOUT THAT — The name is police Capt. RICHARD SIMS, not DAVID SIMS as we reported last week. "Plunky," as his fellow golfers call him, may never forgive us.

THAT QUESTIONNAIRE sent out by the Original Daly City Protective Association and turned over last week to the Daly City staff and City Fathers is loaded and strictly one-sided. There is no doubt the recipients of the questionnaire were honest in their response. However the wording of several questions reads like that of a chestnut about the judge. "It was positive for redevelopment in a family dispute. 'When did you beat your wife last?' In other words, the questions are so one-sided they are of little value, in our estimation. There were eight questions asked and 522 questionnaires given out in what we called the three priority areas for redevelopment in the east section of D.C. Apparently the entire amount returned.

INTERPRETATION of the results of the survey were submitted along with the answers. The interpretations also were heavily one-sided. To sum it all up, it's possible on such a complex issue as redevelopment the folks don't like the way things are going in the redevelopment field — even though it hasn't been decided by the City Council whether there ever will be redevelopment there or anywhere else in the city.

MORE ON REDEVELOPMENT — The R.A. Advisory Committee, composed of 25 people selected by the City Council and not recognized by the OLVPA because they do not feel it properly represents them, handed in their final report Tuesday. It was positive for redevelopment of parts of the target areas. But it was watered down considerably if you compare it to statements made by some members at the outset of the year-long survey. The city has not had time to review it, they tell.

WHILE ALL THAT talk and in-fighting going on behind closed doors over just who will step into Papan's post on the council, the Assemblyman-elect was sunning in Palm Springs with his family. He's back now trying to ready things for his move to Sacamencia.

THE OTHER DAY we wrote a story that letter carriers employed by the Postal Department are the only people who have direct contact with the general public. We were dreaming. What about the window clerks, we were asked? It's true! These clerks catch it even more than the carriers. They've got a whole line of people just itching to shout, yell, threaten and ask them dummy stuff.

THOSE FOLKS on the other side of the mountain from Daly City may not like the idea of becoming Good Old D.C. someday. But since 1968 Brisbane has been included in Daly City's sphere of influence. With all the grumbling going on between the "Gateways to the Peninsula" and the "City of Stars" what do the developers of San Bruno Mountain have to say? Well, Crocker's Frank Calton said he could live with either determination. His only worry is that the annexation battle might delay his project. "We should be going to go ahead," Calton remarked after learning of LAFCO's decision on the matter-turned-issue last month.

OPERATION SANTA CLAU, of which this humble and devoted person has had the pleasure to work with over the years, is on again with Pete Markovich gathering his forces together. Our personal connection with Operation Santa in Daly City is a real success story that would put Horatio Alger to shame. We started off several years ago putting bread dressing for the turkeys in each food package delivered to the less fortunate on Christmas Day. And last year we were assigned, over the vehement protests of Al Belot, to putting hen turkeys in the boxes. We expect Belot to again protest when we are put in charge of placing full-size birds in the baskets. Eat your heart out, A.B.

Mail by Christmas? Promise

This was the vow made by "Eventually, these new machines several North County mailmen will provide faster and better mail delivery in service to postal patrons."

Meanwhile, there is a heavy promise of prompt delivery cutback in the department budget came in the wake of mount- and some concern among ing criticism of current post workers, especially those clerks office procedures on a nation without seniors. It was wide basis. The restructured planed.

Will this difference of registration and voting strength ever straighten away? This is highly doubtful. Old habits are hard to change, and top union leadership is not likely to join the Republican party to battle with industrial leaders for party preference. What is more, parties are becoming less powerful. People are interested in candidates and immediate issues, not blandly stated party platforms. The young, certainly, with their dislike of institutions generally, are not likely to confine their politics to parties.

In years that the Democrats can get their registration machines to vote together they should win easily. But to do this, they must build blocs. They must hold together dis- crepant elements whose inter- ests loom larger with each passing year.

The Republicans, on the other hand, must learn to bloc busting. Their appeal must be issue principle and candidate oriented in order to appeal to some of the members of each bloc. The regular defec- tor from Democratic ranks doesn't care a good deal about party, and will be inclined not to vote in primary elections or to vote in favor of candidates who do not represent the main- stream of Democratic registra- tion. The Democratic party is, indeed, a house of many rooms, with fights going on within rooms and between dif-

connection with registration. For a registrant knows that his party designation in California is available to anyone interested enough to check it out. His vote, however, is a secret that he need share with no one.

The difference between registration and voting power creates problems for both parties. The Republican party tends to be more ingrown and exclusive in its conclaves and nominating procedures. It runs the constant risk of being more business oriented and conservative than the 10-20 per cent of the electorate that it represents. It suffers from constant internal wars of purification which tend to sift out the vote in primary elections or wise willing to commit to the party banner.

The Democratic party, on the other hand, carries a great many people who are apathetic to its cause. The regular defec- tor from Democratic ranks doesn't care a good deal about party, and will be inclined not to vote in primary elections or to vote in favor of candidates who do not represent the main- stream of Democratic registra- tion. ## Songs Broke The Boredom

One winter night, years ago, I was traveling through Utah on a "milk train," when a snowslide forced the train to stop while a plow cleared the tracks. All of the passengers grew cold and bored as the train sat still, hour after hour. Children cried, women grumbled; men cursed.

THEN A MIRACLE happened. Someone pulled out a guitar and started to sing a familiar tune. "Hey, that's beautiful," somebody else smiled, "Play 'Yankee Doodle' and I'll join in." Within minutes nearly everyone in our car was singing to the top of his voice. Soon people from other cars crowded into ours and the singing went on while the snow was being cleared away. So the train could churn forward.

Since then I have noticed many times, the power contained in simple everyday songs. Such tunes can, as the poet John Armstrong wrote, Expel diseases, soften every pain, subdue the rage of poison and the plague. But at Christmas they pull out providing service to the Ameri- all the stops. In many cases so- can be hired and em- operate in the black like any private corporation.

The conflict comes when the ment improve its service year department tries to provide round, or just during the holi- cians come from union of- ficials has been directed at the higher echelon of the postal de- partment, not local postmasters. This is where the direc-

Unsung Crusade Volunteers

One of the many unsung volunteers working for the United Bay Area Crusade is Millbrae resident Bill Livingston. Livingston is the editor of the California Teachers Association's publication "CTA Action", a semi-monthly tabloid that goes to some 16,000 members. He has been with the CTA for the past 10 years in the Public Relations Department. George Umberhaur, the Crusade's Public Relations Chairman for San Mateo County, says that Livingston is the man behind the stories about the Crusade that have been appearing in San Mateo papers throughout the campaign. Umberhaur speaks highly of Livingston and says that he is a dedicated man with the true Crusade spirit that is reflected in their slogan for this campaign, "Give Hope to People."

Bill Livingston

years; most of that time as education writer. Previously he had been on the editorial staff of papers in Redding, Monterey, Berkeley and Richmond. Says Livingston, "Newspaper work gives a good insight into some of the problems which people face. I've always been a Crusade supporter although this is true in Millbrae."

Bruno Youth Held After Speed Chase

A 16-year-old San Bruno youth, per hour in a 25 mile per hour zone, before being forced to stop for a pursuing San Carlos police car on the Woodside Expressway in Redwood City Friday night, then made the mistake of jumping back into his car when he failed to pass a roadside sobriety test.

This set off a high speed chase which ended when his auto finally crashed into a tree.

Officer Chris Durkin reported he noticed an auto heading south on El Camino Road near White Oak way in San Carlos at high speed around 9:45 p.m.

He said he followed the vehicle to Whipple Avenue in Redwood City, where the car stopped for a red light. Then the auto began to follow a vehicle ahead too closely, Durkin said. The car stopped for a second red light at Broadway, but then took off at high speed before finally pulling off to the side of the road. Durkin noticed a passenger place a bag in a rear seat, and checking if he found three cans of beer.

When asked to stand on one leg, the youth lost his balance. Durkin reported. He ran back to his car, however, jumped in, and sped off.

Officer Charles M. Wright of Redwood City joined the chase, as the boy turned north on Hudson street, travelling 60 miles

A CHRISTMAS DINNER Dance is being planned for December 9 by St. Andrew's Community at the Community Center, St. Francis Square, Daly City. Cocktails are planned at different hosts' homes with dinner starting at 8:30 p.m. and dancing to live music from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. The dinner is being catered by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maurino of St. Francis Heights Delicatessen. The menu includes salad, sirloin tips and noodles, string beans and French pastry. Tickets are $5 per person and can be purchased by phoning 992-3816 or 755-8427. Selecting a wine for the dinner from wine steward Frank Scarpino (right) is Mrs. Herman Erler (center) while Bert Theis looks on. (Post Photo)
